EFFECTIVE JANUARY 1st, 1943, THE RATE OF INTEREST TO BE PAID ON TIME AND SAVINGS DEPOSITS WILL BE 1 PER CENT.

This change in rate is made necessary due to declining loans and the reduced return obtainable on Government Bonds. The best rate now available for banks on such bonds is 2 per cent, and from this must be paid operating costs, and bond interest is no longer tax free as in former years.

Long faces won't win the war. You can contribute to the war effort and still be cheerful.

"Peace on earth, good will toward men," shouldn't be just a Christmas expression; it should be a year-around practice.

Typical Americanism: Boys on the far flung war front facing death hourly, wallowing in the mud and heat of the tropical South Sea islands, shivering in the cold of Alaska and the Aleutian Islands, searching under the North African sun, some making the supreme sacrifice.

People on the home front complaining because they have to walk down town to mail Christmas packages and cards to friends and relatives in adjoining towns.

Don't forget to "give the present with a future!" Give War Bonds!

Loose talk is dangerous. One radio comedian said that he even knows that

A friendly chap may tell a Jap.

In 1943 we'll probably be saying, "Do you remember the good old days when you could have two lumps of sugar in your coffee when you could get the coffee?"

Sometimes when you are asked for an opinion of a person's work, you can either lie and have that person like you or be honest and court his disfavor.

Some people ask for opinions hoping to get constructive criticism; others to get praise.

And then there's a name for the individual who would claim or accept credit for good ideas or deeds done by another. The Japs are familiar with that name.

And we might also praise the postman. After all, what a Christmas these days without the mail.

We'll all probably have a Merry Christmas, but whether we will have a Happy New Year will depend on whether or not we paid cash for the Christmas.

Newcastle Club News

On Friday, December 18th, the Newcastle club enjoyed a delightful Christmas party at the community house. A devotional of Scripture concerning the Lord's birth was read by Mrs. Alvin Anderson. The singing of carols made each member's heart swell with pride and joy at being an American and knowing the meaning of Christmas spirit. "Rest on the Flight to Egypt," was read by Virginia Moody. Games and contests were enjoyed with prizes being given to Mrs. Jim H. Strickland and Mrs. Alvin Anderson. A beautifully trimmed Christmas tree and bowls of Christmas berries were used as decorations. Gifts were exchanged, after which delicious refreshments were served.

der the starry skies of freedom. Typical Americans cannot enjoy a full table when his fellowman suffers for food.

Where will it end? How far will Americans go down the road of sacrifice before the light of victory will lighten the world again?

Our eighteen-year-olds are registering today, smiling and confident; some of our finest high school boys are "signing up." Girls, for the first time in the history of America, are being admitted to branches of service other than the medical.

Four Statesboro girls are in the WAVES; others will go. Women are working in shipyards and in other defense plants where before exclusively men worked. We at the high school drill daily. The exercise grows easier each day. Whatever is for us to do, we know that we will do it willingly and cheerfully, in the full faith that the "Tree of Light" will shine again, and that the forces of the God in whom America believes will push the Stars and Stripes up higher than ever before, and that its symbolism of freedom and democracy will indeed be world-wide.

The people of the United States are this year not like individuals, but like a unit, one hundred thirty million Americans all working together for the same destination and decree—peace and victory. In order to give Christmas back to all the world we must buy War Bonds and Stamps. Give them as Christmas gifts, and by doing this you will be helping to rid the world of the oppressor and to re-light the Star of Bethlehem over all the world.

But in this country Christmas is Christmas still. A time of gifts and good fellowships, faith and hope un-

May Come Our Way

THE STATEMENT appearing in the papers which loosely indicates that the federal government "may take over the colleges and universities of the nation," is somewhat misleading.

If one reads the story through, it will be observed that the plan is to adopt some sort of co-operative program by which the already established educational institutions may be made to render a large service in the present world-wide emergency. Our nation at this moment is organizing all available man-power to apply in the most effective way toward bringing victory. It is recognized that highly technical training is essential to the many of the prospective soldiers to serve in their best capacity. Training camps have been made to cover the nation, and men are being drilled in the practical matters of war. Where drills are required, men are being given higher training. Methods of war have advanced to the point where a higher average degree of skill is required. Because of this need, more physical training is not sufficient; scientific instruction is increasingly needed.

Those in charge of making war, are shaping speedily to attain the greatest efficiency. The plan, as we have observed from reading some of the correspondence addressed to our Statesboro college, is to ascertain the exact extent to which that institution may fit into the program. There is no doubt that some plan will be evolved by which service may be rendered. This will not by any means require the abandonment of the existing type of work being done. There will merely be a co-operation in the work of education.

Pins In His Hat

REAL OLD TIMERS will remember an eccentric old negro named Bob Crittenden who walked our streets a half century ago with his hat literally filled with common pins which he had picked up here and there as he went about the streets. Every pin he saw pointing toward him, he regarded as an omen of good luck, and he picked it up and stuck it in the rim of his hat. If the pin pointed away from him, Bob walked around and approached from the other end — and that meant good luck.

When he had stuck in so many pins there was not room for another. Bob buried his hat and pins, got another hat and started again. You could hear him from one end of the town to the other singing as he went about his work. He was truly eccentric, but his idea of good luck was to find a pin. He told us one day about his troubles at home. He had a wife, but she objected to his hat and pins, and she separated on that issue. Bob said she objected to his pins, and he objected to her. The which means it doesn't take much to rupture friendship if people are selfish. Bob thought his way was superior; his wife believed hers was.

The issue which involves us in the present devastating war with Japan may be vastly more important than a pin, but it dates back to the same attitude of self-superiority. Japanese tradition claims for them that their founder, Jimmu Tenno, set up his government near the present Kyoto in 660 B. C. (Would that be 2,662 years ago?) It was during the sixteenth century that Europeans made their first acquaintance with Japan, when, in 1542, Mendez Pinto, a Portuguese was shipwrecked on the coast of Japan. . . . Thousands of Japanese accepted the Christian faith.

Each rivalry was created; religious jealousy mingled with political intrigue and the strife of feudal clans; then followed attempts to banish missionaries; rebellion arose among these Christians and an edict was issued which forbade the exercise of the Christian religion; and in 1639 an edict excluding all foreigners and prohibiting all intercourse with foreign countries.

Japan objected to the possibility of contamination; for two hundred years no communication was permitted except through the occasional visit of a Dutch or Chinese vessel. This exception, however, permitted a little knowledge of the world to filter in and paved the way for later national jealousy which has culminated in today's war to the death.

In the meantime, we Americans have flattered ourselves with the as-urance that we are a superior people. No public speaker within the life of this writer has failed to ring in the praise for us that "in our blood flows the purest strains of Anglo-Saxon blood." The saying of which recognizes appreciation of the German (Saxon) race as one source of our great superiority. We have made laws which excluded the Japanese and Chinese from our midst as undesirable. (And we believe we were justified.) And the Japanese and Germans have both acclaimed themselves as superior people.

Superiority is a mighty small issue about which to destroy human lives. Bob Crittenden and his wife merely left each other when they disagreed about too many pins in Bob's hat.

We'd Be Suspicious

PERSONALLY we'd be suspicious if Satan should come suddenly into the arena of reform and announce his intention to purge the earth of sin. We'd suspect there was a "catch" in what he professed, and that when he had finished destroying sin, it would be found that he had not only legitimized it but had popularized it.

The Georgia weekly papers during recent days have been carrying a series of right appealing cartoons bearing upon the alleged effort to "purify" the alcoholic situation in Georgia. Three respectable looking men seem to be standing in serious study; a dignified man wearing glasses is doing the talking. He holds a glass before him and seems to be stressing his statements by spreading his fingers in a sort of judicial way. One of the other men has addressed this individual as Judge, and has asked him to repeat a statement which "you" told the other two men while walking home from the lodge. And the judge was happy to repeat what he had told his neighbor: "Sure thing, Tim here's what I told him. Charlie, there's no such thing as votin' a nation, a state, or even a community dry. . . . What you really vote for is liquor. It's going to be sold legally or illegally."

And the judge winked his eye as if he thought he had said something convincing. The cartoon bore the endorsement, "Copyright, 1942, Conference of Alcoholic Beverage Industries, Inc., N.Y.C." And you would have known that if it had not been printed.

What the judge had said about control of the liquor business is equally true about every other agency of good government. The people of the nation have legislated against murder, but killings are going on every day; they have voted against theft, but stealing is rampant and courts are cluttered up with the prosecution of violators of this law. Voting against an evil does not automatically stamp out that evil; even prosecution of crime does not blot out all crime. Yet intelligent, decent-living people do not urge repeal of these laws against crime, because they recognize that legalizing a crime does not make it right. The liquor business is not a class by itself as to this matter of legalization. The "Conference of Alcoholic Beverage Industries, Inc." has not intended to contribute to the curtailment of the liquor traffic nor the crime-flood which follows in its wake. It merely seeks to legalize the evil and thus popularize it.

We are suspicious about the source from which this reform comes.

Oscie Powell Writes of $2 Ripe Watermelons

Among the V-mail received at the Times office perhaps the funniest from home was that from Oscie Powell, who is understood to be in Australia.

The letter was written November 28th, and arrived here on December 22nd. Briefly it said: "Oscie always was the letter merely said:

Nov. 28, 1942.
Dear Mr. Turner:
How is everything at home? Fine. I hope. Well, here it is plenty hot, as this sun really bears down. We celebrated Thanksgiving on the 17th. The way we had plenty of turkey. So I guess they are thinking of us men overseas. Watermelons are in season here now, but if you buy a big one it will cost you $2; they taste like the ones at home. OSCIE."

And that was the brief Christmas greeting from a young lad who used to be a helper in the Times office. One Saturday morning he came to the Times office with a beautifully dressed rabbit which he had knocked over with a rock the evening before. He wondered if Oscie is knocking over kangaroos in Australia, between watermelons?

URGES FARMERS IMPROVE SOILS

Thorough Preparation of Land Is Essential To Insure Good Stands

Farmers who have been most successful in establishing kudzu have found that thorough land preparation well in advance of planting helped to get good stands, says W. T. Smalley, assistant soil conservationist of the Ogeechee River Soil Conservation district.

Land prepared in the fall or early winter was well settled when the plants were set out, an important factor in getting good results with this fast growing plant.

In preparing land the conservationist recommends plowing deep furrows 25 feet apart and applying one or two tons of manure and 200 pounds of superphosphate per acre in the furrows. Then throw additional furrows to the row to form a broad, flat bed, approximately 10 feet wide, and allow to settle until planting time. If the beds have not settled sufficiently by then, it will be necessary to harrow, roll, or otherwise firm the ground to produce a firm bed. Plants set out in loose, fresh soil, often dry out and die.

With an ever-increasing emphasis on the production of feed crops, the demand for kudzu planting stock by Bulloch county farmers is expected to exceed that of any previous year. Added to that is the possibility that the supply of plants may be limited. For these reasons, Smalley says, it is important to take every precaution to see that plants set out this winter survive.

Where Is Education?

(Walter S. Steels, in the National Republic.)

A great many patriotic Americans were shocked recently, and with good reason, when the results of a carefully conducted survey showed that eighty-two per cent of the universities and colleges in the United States do not require the study of United States history for acquiring an under-graduate degree. Moreover, the survey shows that of our colleges and universities, seventy-eight per cent do not even require United States history for admission. During the recent spring semester, it is stated, "less than ten per cent of the undergraduate body was enrolled in United States history classes." Thirty per cent of the freshmen class enrolled in world history while only eight per cent enrolled in United States history. Furthermore, it has been declared that in 22 of our 48 states no public school instruction in American history is required.

Here is a situation which may well be viewed with alarm by those forever looking Americans who have the future interest of the nation at heart. As President Lincoln once said, "we cannot escape history." It is the one thing which is made for us whether or not we like the kind which is being made.

To every American worthy of the name our history seems so essential a part of our national life, and the shaping of our national consciousness, that it is difficult for many to see why the present situation in our colleges and universities has been permitted to come about. There are a few excuses given why United States history is not included in our higher institutions of learning. One of these is that the subject is thoroughly covered in our grade and high schools and that devotion to American history is not needed in our universities and colleges. An examination of this contention proves that it is full of holes. It is true that United States history is taught in some of the lower grades and in some of the high school grades. The writer well remembers that in his early years he absorbed the glorious American tradition and unconsciously built for himself a sound foundation of patriotism through these elementary history courses.

But this is not saying by any means there is no need for the teaching of United States history in our higher institutions of learning. Such history as presented in our lower school grades is necessarily limited in scope and only the leading events can be touched, because of lack of time and facilities and for the further reason that the mind of the pupil is not yet young for advanced courses in history.

STRICT CONTROL USE SCHOOL BUSES
Federal Regulation Forbids Use Even For Sports Events During Winter

As a part of the total war effort the federal government through the Office of Defense Transportation has issued definite regulations and policies for the operation of all school buses and has ruled that use of buses for sports events, such as basketball, will not be authorized this winter.

Stressing the fact that pupil transportation is absolutely essential to the operation of Bulloch county school system, County Superintendent W. E. McElwain said Guy Kelsey, regional director of ODT's local transport division, had authorized a 12-point policy for conserving buses in Georgia's 150 county school system.

Among other things the policies specifically that transportation will be provided only for individuals who would have to walk more than two miles to school, or at least one mile and a half to reach the main school bus route, and that bus stops will be spaced from one-eighth to one-quarter mile apart, except for crippled children.

Elimination of all unnecessary mileage, including side trips, and the co-operation of school officials and bus operators in arranging for the use of school buses in essential war worker transportation are strongly recommended by ODT.

Recent state school reports show that 46 per cent of all white children attending school last year were transported and that 2,879 buses were used daily in doing the job. At the present time for the duration of the war new buses will not be available for school use.

The people of Bulloch county are just as patriotic as other Georgians and the people of the nation. The parents and their children affected in this county will gladly co-operate in this wartime measure.

May Take Over Schools

The program for utilizing college and university facilities to give specialized training to young men in the armed services was announced jointly by Secretaries Stimson and Knox. Mr. Stimson said the program would go far toward temporarily destroying the liberal education in America so far as the able-bodied men of college age are concerned, but would not have a permanently bad effect. Mr. Knox thought it an attempt to preserve liberal education during the war, as preference would be given to smaller not-to-highly-endowed colleges whose existence might be threatened by war. Meanwhile, a new bulletin has been sent to local selective service boards granting temporary deferment for college and university students and instructors in certain medical, engineering and other technical fields. All university men have been advised to remain in school until called for military service, and the 18 and 19-year-olds have been told not to hesitate to enroll to begin their college training.

The rules and regulations under which schools will be selected for the program will be prescribed by WMC Chairman McNutt, after consultation with Secretaries Stimson and Knox, the actual selection to be made by a joint committee consisting of representatives of the armed services and the WMC. A questionnaire on staffs and facilities has already been sent to all the higher educational institutions in the country, and the schools chosen will, under contract with the army and navy, furnish instruction in prescribed courses and also furnish the necessary housing and messing facilities. Qualified young men detailed to these institutions will be active duty, in uniform, with regular service pay and subject to general military discipline.

Manpower

By the end of 1943 or early 1944, according to WMC estimates, there will be 9,700,000 Americans in the armed forces, 20,000,000 in war industry, 19,600,000 in civilian industry, and 7,900,000 in year-round farm work. In addition millions will be needed seasonally in the various agricultural areas. In November 53,800,000 people were employed and 1,700,000 unemployed; but the census bureau said there were 5,600,000 people—most of them housewives—who could take full-time employment but had not done so. The Department of Agriculture said that 7,372,000 family workers and 2,270,000 hired hands were working on farms on December 1, and the Department of Labor reported that employment in new construction projects in 1943 would drop to an average of little more than 1,000,000 workers making an equal number available for other war employment.

The War Front

Elmer Davis, director of the OWI, said there is no reason for Americans to be disheartened about the Allies' progress in North Africa, as it was natural for the drive to slow down after its initial start. While the enemy there still has a measure of air superiority, that "will be taken care of when we establish our forward bases." From the beginning of the North African campaign through December 12, U. S. fliers destroyed 70 Axis aircraft and damaged 43, at a cost of 35 American planes lost and eight missing; and communiques throughout the last week have reported another 11 Axis planes downed, another 10 destroyed, and 100 Axis soldiers killed and scores taken prisoners. U. S. losses of the week were set at three planes lost and one missing.

General MacArthur's headquarters, after reporting the capture of Buna by Allied troops, opened a heavy new attack today on Japanese beachhead at Buna Mission. On Friday, December 18, U. S. submarines, operating in Pacific and Far Eastern waters, sank seven more Japanese ships, one large tanker, one large cargo ship, one medium-sized transport and one trawler. From Guadalcanal came reports that U. S. fliers subjected the Munda area of New Guinea to numerous damaging attacks, and the week's action reported one Japanese destroyer sunk, one set afire and probably sunk, one damaged, one destroyer at cruiser damaged, eight planes downed and one destroyed. In this action the U. S. lost one motor torpedo boat and one plane, and one plane is reported missing.

War Strategy

Admiral Doolittle's declaration of intention in regard to French North Africa has been issued by President Roosevelt. The text reads in part: "In leading North and West Africa against Germany and Italy and into the ranks of the United Nations, I seek no assistance or support for any personal ambitions. My sole purpose is to save French Africa, help France and then retire to private life with a hope that the future leaders of France may be selected by the French people themselves and by no one else." Admiral Doolittle pledged co-operation to the cause of the United Nations, and said he had already taken steps granting amnesty to allied sympathizers, restoring to rank French officers, releasing United Nations prisoners, and stopping persecution of Jews. Also, he said, he had placed armed forces in the field to fight beside the Allies and made available to the Allies whatever posts, airfields, railroad and communication facilities and buildings the military situation demanded.

Production

A production report released by WPB states that 1943 production for war alone will have to equal the value of all the goods and services produced by the nation in its years of greatest prosperity. Although the U. S. is making as many combat weapons today as the entire Axis, in 1943 it will have to do a "better than $90,000,000 war job."

Under Secretary of War Patterson gave the following figures for 1942 production of war weapons: More than 25,000 tanks, more than 3,000 90-mm anti-aircraft guns, more than 9,000 40-mm anti-aircraft guns, more than 300,000 .50 cal. machine guns, and more than 500,000 machine guns of all types, and small arms ammunition, counted off the line at better than 1,000,000,000 rounds a month. Maritime announced a new monthly record in the production of liberty ships—68 liberty ships were turned out in November at an average of only 50 days from keel-laying to delivery. This is a cut of ten days from the October average, and represents one-fourth the time necessary last January when the program was started.

The dollar value of military supplies acquired for the army in 1942, including all munitions and equipment, was set by Under Secretary Patterson at $25,000,000,000, as against $5,000,000,000 in 1941 and $1,000,000,000 in 1940. Munitions, exclusive of aircraft, acquired by the army this year will amount to $11,000,000,000, or about 90 per cent of U. S. and Allied stated requirements.

Agriculture

January 12, 1943, by presidential proclamation will be Farm Mobilization Day. The President has asked farmers to meet on that day with department of agriculture representatives, state officials, farm organizations, and others concerned, to discuss ways and means of insuring maximum 1943 production of vital foods on every farm in the country.

"A week of the War" summarizes information on the important developments of the week made available by official sources through 2 p. m. EST, Saturday, Dec. 19.)

YES, there IS a Santa Claus. ALDERMAN—COX

An interesting event of last Saturday afternoon was the marriage of Miss Margaret Morgan Alderman, of Atlanta, formerly of Brooklet, and Albert V. Cox, of Atlanta, formerly of Springfield, Ill. The wedding took place in the First Baptist church in Atlanta, with Rev. Middleton officiating. The bride is the second daughter of Mr. and Dr. L. Alderman of this place. After her graduation from the Brooklet High School, she finished a business and stenographic course at Daughon's Business College in Atlanta. For the past few years she has held a position with the Sun Life Insurance Company in Atlanta.

The bride chose for her wedding dress a high colored wool suit with brown accessories. Her corsage was orchids. Her sister, Mrs. F. C. Woodall, was matron of honor and her only attendant. She wore a navy dress and a corsage of pink roses. The best man was W. M. Townley, of Atlanta.

The groom is the son of Fred A. Cox and the late Mrs. Cox, of Springfield, Ill. After his graduation from high school in Springfield, Ill., he finished a course in the aircraft school in Atlanta. He is now employed in the mechanical department at the bomber plant in Marietta, Ga. The young couple will make their home in Atlanta.

Former Citizen Dies In Screven

Interest attaches to the recent passing of L. M. Ernest, age 57 years, at his home in Screven county. Mr. Ernest came to Bulloch county in 1910, from northwest Tennessee as a school teacher; he taught two years at Brannen's Institute, near Brooklet. From there he went to Rocky Ford, where he taught several years. While there in 1914 married Miss Macie Lee, daughter of Joshua Lee. He later taught at Hiltonia, Newington, and at Oliver, where he retired from school work and went into the mercantile business in which he was engaged at his death last week.

Mr. Ernest was a very quiet fellow, modest and always loyal to his convictions, and the people of Oliver spoke of him as a strong Christian character.

Statesboro Soldier Boy Writes To His Parents

An interesting letter, replete with intimate personal details yet revealing much of the situation which attaches to soldier life in the far-away Pacific, was that received during the week by Mr. and Mrs. D. S. Robertson from their son, Bruce.

Restricted as to the release of details as to his exact whereabouts, young Robertson made mention of incidents which disclosed his presence in a Pacific island. He told of his Thanksgiving dinner, which he described as very substantial though lacking in some of the specialties which mark such dinner in his home. The letter dated November 27th, mailed the day following, arrived here on the 14th of December. In the same mail Mr. and Mrs. Robertson received a beautiful communication from their son's commanding officer, Col. J. B. Fraser, of Hinesville, in which he revealed that not one fatality had occurred so far in their outfit. That letter was postmarked Dec. 2, and arrived here twelve days later, which seems to indicate that our boys are not so far removed after all.

Now they would attempt to put the yoke on us—on you. It must not happen here! Whatever the cost, the Axis must be smashed. Your part, as a college student, is clear. You may not be behind a gun today, but you can help today to give our soldiers, sailors, and marines the weapons they need for victory.

Put your dimes and dollars into fighting uniform now by buying United States Savings Bonds and Stamps. LAWYERS SURE TO MAKE BOND QUOTA

More Than Half-Way Past In Journey Toward Six Million Quota Accepted

Members of the Georgia Bar Association, who accepted the responsibility of putting Georgia over the top on its $6,000,000 December War Bond quota, today were well on their way toward a great "home run" victory. Georgians purchased $3,850,000 worth of Series E War Bonds during the first fifteen days in December, putting the lawyers well above their half-way mark quota, it was announced by E. Smythe Gambrell, of Atlanta, chairman of the Georgia Bar Association's War Bond campaign.

A large number of county chairmen have already advised Mr. Gambrell that they have exceeded their full quotas, and many communities are planning special bond selling celebrations for the last week in the month. This includes "Jeez Riders," where a civilian is permitted to ride in a jeep upon purchasing a war bond; county-wide meetings at which service flags, made by the women of the community and carrying stars for local boys in the armed service, are presented to the county officials; and to Mrs. Debbie Aldred on the 28th of December, 1942, and recorded in the office of the clerk of Bulloch superior court in deed book 91, on page 94, the undersigned will sell, at public sale, at the court house in said county, during the legal hours of sale, to the highest bidder for cash, on the first Tuesday in January, 1943, the following property, to-wit:

That certain tract or lot of land lying and being in the 1547th district G. M. Bulloch county, Georgia, containing fifty (50) acres, more or less, bounded north by lands of Mrs. J. C. Brown (formerly owned by D. A. Brannan); east by lands of J. C. Simmons (formerly owned by J. S. Neamith); and west by lands of Brooks Simmons (formerly owned by J. B. Groover) and by lands of Mrs. Walter Groover (formerly W. H. Kennedy). The above being the description of these lands at the date of the security deed. Said sale will be made for the purpose of paying a certain promissory note bearing date the 28th day of December, 1929, and payable on the 28th day of December, 1930, and made and executed by the said W. H. Aldred, said note being for $1,800.00 principal, stipulating for interest from date at the rate of 8 per cent per annum, the total amount due on said note being $1,800.00 principal and $1,474.00 interest, together with the cost of this proceeding as provided in said security deed. A conveyance will be executed to the purchaser by the undersigned as authorized in said deed to secure debt.

This is the 9th day of December, 1942. MRS. DEBBIE ALDRED.
